

Global Security Institute

Dear friend,

During this time of war, we must "refuse to accept the cynicism and despair that crushes hope and vision." I invite you to join the Nobel Peace Laureates, who at a recent gathering in Rome affirmed strongly "our common humanity and capacity to work cooperatively, informed by compassion and inspired by love. Our humanity demands this."

Below is a brief snapshot of the current activities of the Global Security Institute. Click on any headline to see a more detailed report. If your links don't work, all reports are on the GSI website at <http://www.gsainstitute.org>.

Jonathan Granoff, President

Please Join Michael Douglas, Christie Brinkley, and the Rt. Hon. Kim Campbell

For a Special Evening for Peace
April 21, 2003
New York City
Organized by GSI and STAR

GSI 2002 Annual Report Now Available

We at GSI have redoubled our efforts: with our expanded team of leaders our capacity for practical and effective advocacy has dramatically increased. Please download the report on our programs and activities in 2002. May this report be a source of inspiration and hope to you.

Capitol Hill Seminar on Bio Weapons

On March 25, the Bipartisan Task Force on Non-Proliferation of the US Congress will be hosting a panel on The Biological Weapons Convention: Relevance for International and National Security.

The Bipartisan Security Group (a program of the Global Security Institute) has organized this panel, which includes: Ambassador Jim Leonard, Professor Barry Kellman, and Suzanne Spaulding.

2003 Alan Cranston Peace Award

HONORING CONGRESSWOMAN NANCY PELOSI

With actors Pierce Brosnan and Peter Coyote, Jayantha Dhanapala, United Nations Under-Secretary-General for Disarmament Affairs, and special guests.

In a time of human awakening, historic uncertainty, international crisis and threats to our cherished democracy we offer you a chance to celebrate and support the dedication of those working for peace and disarmament around the world.

Saturday, April 12, 2003
The Fairmont, San Francisco
Please reserve seats by calling GSI at (415) 775 6760.

For more information, visit <http://www.gsinstitute.org>

Close Window